

AN INTRODUCTION TO

The Affinity Method

The conversation game-plan that makes her want to ask you out.

WRITTEN BY

Jiron

authenticgentleman.com

“

How about you bring me to that Marquee club next week, the one you talked about? And then after the fun and dancing, we can head back to my place.

LAUREN

That was what she said.

My response?

“

How about... no sex tonight, but we make out instead?

It was like a negotiation. Not in any way romantic at all.

But a man's gotta shoot his shot. And I knew I didn't need to be smooth. I didn't need to be persuasive either. I just needed to lead her through my game-plan.

That's the beauty of the Affinity Method.

I knew what I was doing every step of the way. I knew she was ready.

Not because I'm 6'3", with nice big muscles or the dashing good looks of a model. In fact, I'm 5'7" and she's 5'10". She has nice long legs with a booty to match, easily mistaken as a model (but that's not her profession).

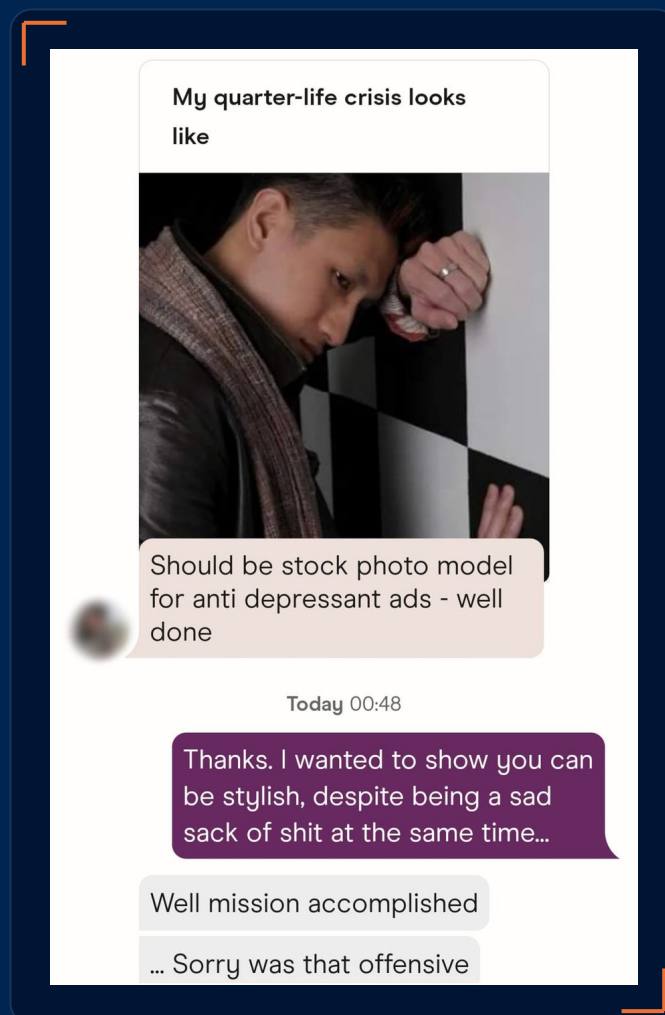

And she definitely wasn't attracted to me because I splashed the cash on our first date. We only went for ice cream ($12), and had non-alcoholic drinks at an Irish pub ($27). That total cost was the low end of a night out for 1 person, in the most expensive city in the world.

But let's begin from where it all started — Hinge.

I

PART ONE

It began with depression...

I don't know how you truly feel about dating, but it can be rough. A long time ago, I've had the unfortunate experience of being rejected on at least 12 consecutive first dates, before I met a woman who was willing to give me a shot.

(I stopped counting after 7, because it was so frustrating.)

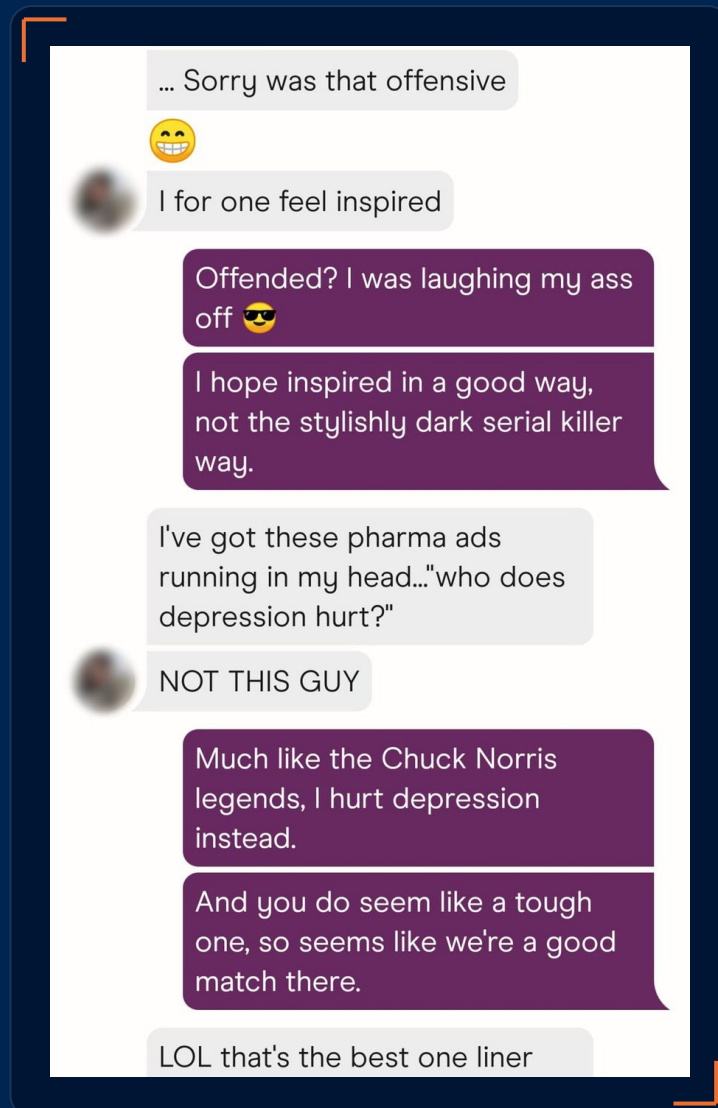

That made me realize I didn't want dating to be anxiety-inducing, and end up feeling like I can't enjoy it.

I want to have fun while dating instead.

RULES OF AFFINITY METHOD

Have fun always.

Which is why I replied the way I did with Lauren (not her real name) — with a dose of self deprecation and some spontaneous rhyming (which should tell her how unserious I was with the self deprecation).

My response was ambiguous and it made her feel uncertain, but it doesn't matter.

Because I knew where I was going next — creating a sense of togetherness by using words like “we” and “us”.

RULES OF AFFINITY METHOD

Always build togetherness.

I did that for 2 main reasons:

1 She's an ally, not the enemy. That means you wanna treat her as if she's on your side already. Don't compete. Be partners-in-crime instead.

2 Most dating app conversations are really just "information exchanges". That means the man shares a bit about himself, and the woman responds by sharing a bit about herself.

Now imagine 2 lines running parallel to each other. The red line is the information you shared about yourself, and the green line is what the woman shares about herself:

WHAT YOU SHARE ABOUT YOU

parallel — they never meet

WHAT SHE SHARES ABOUT HER

These 2 lines will never touch. That's because whatever the both of you talk about does not include each other in it.

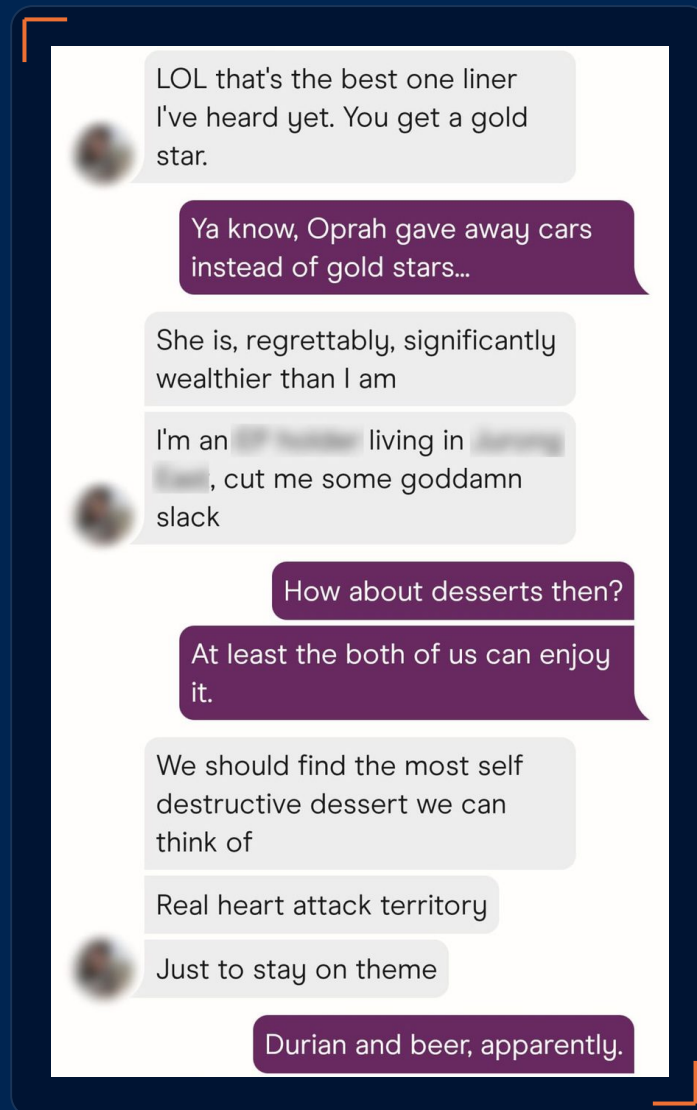

We want those lines to intersect.

We want her to start thinking of you as a partner, an ally. Because romantic relationships involve 2 people being on the same side.

Which is why I said:

And you do seem like a tough one, so seems like we're a good match there.

We continued the banter and I teased her about her “gold star” comment.

AFFINITY METHOD — STEP 1

Quick Rapport.

The good vibes meant we had a nice rapport going within the first few messages.

This is one of the Authentic Gentleman’s secrets to building a connection fast — we vibe well by being fun and playful.

But we don’t just wanna play. We want to get the date too.

And because we're riding on a high, this was the perfect time to lead the conversation towards the date.

I never expect her to lead, because women prefer to go with the flow and let everything happen naturally. But ultimately, someone has to take charge.

So instead of being lost in the feel-good feelings of the moment and not lead towards the date, I smoothly transitioned and suggested:

“

How about desserts then? At least the both of us can enjoy it.

She agreed with me (Quick Rapport again). Great!

But what's the next step then?

AFFINITY METHOD — STEP 2

Foreshadow.

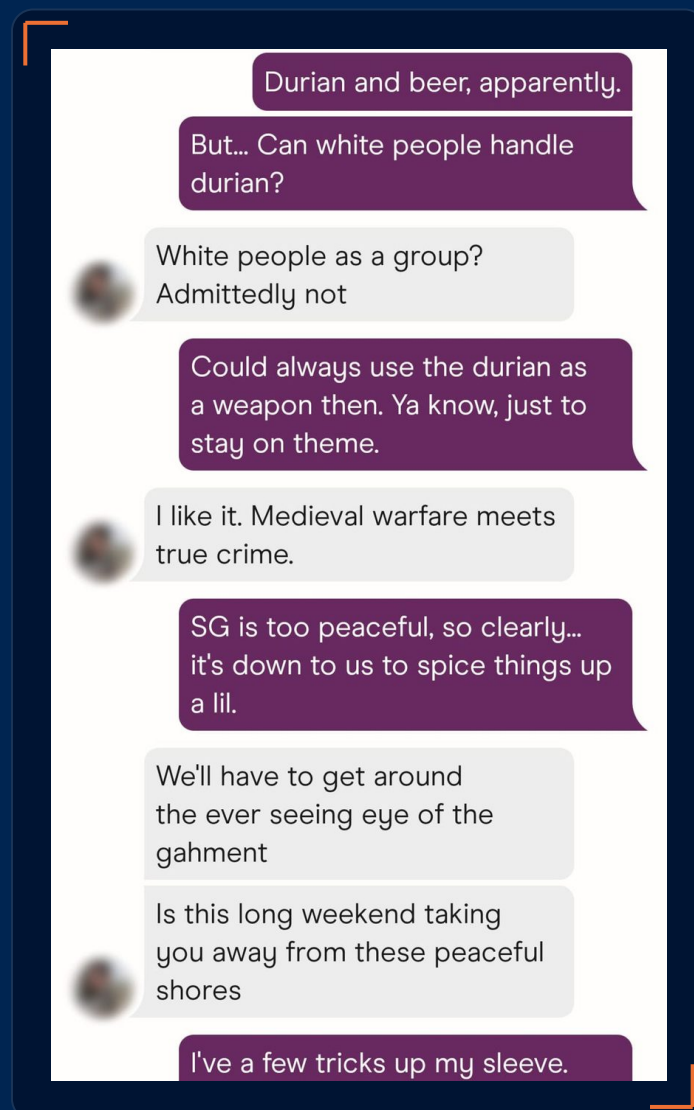

You foreshadow by painting pictures in her mind.

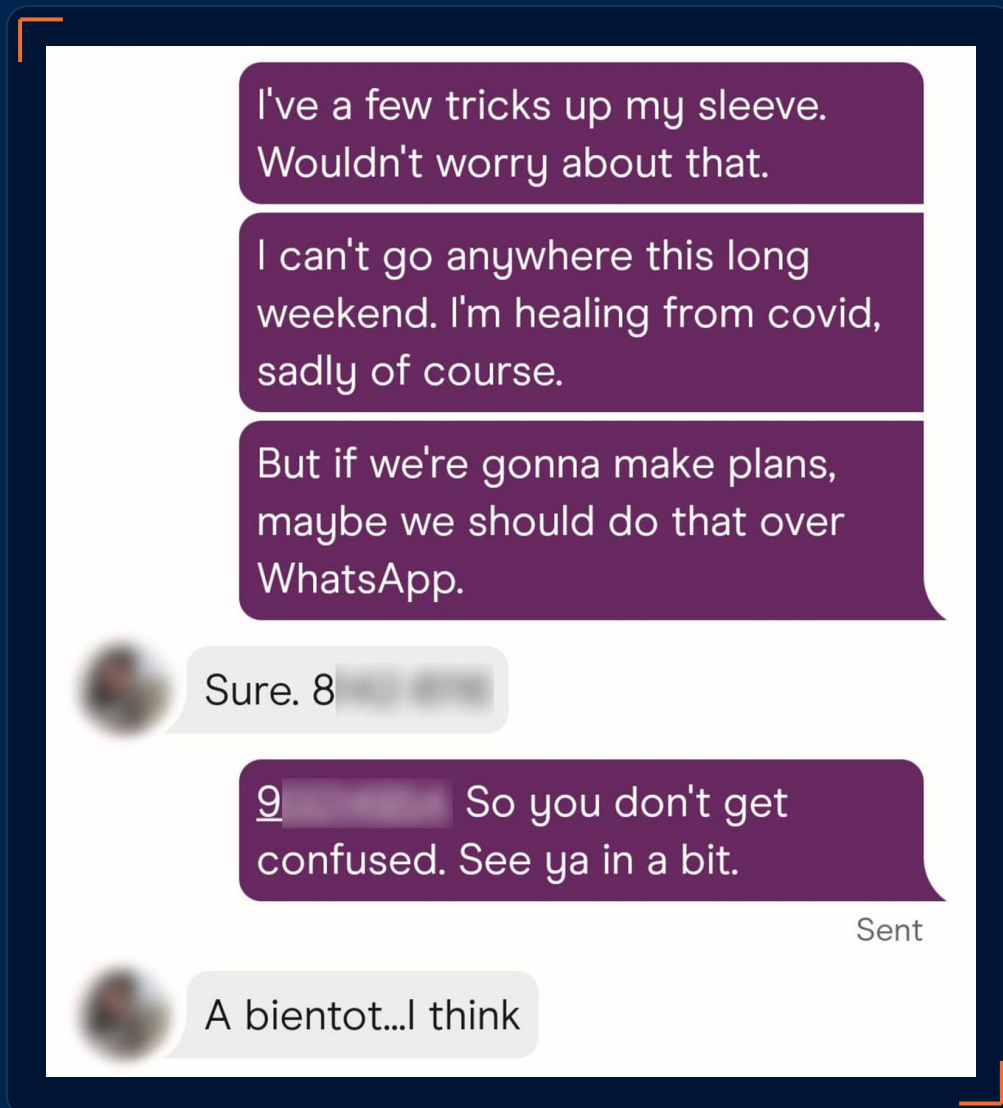

As you can see above, she foreshadowed me instead by saying:

“

We should find the most self destructive dessert we can think of. Real heart attack territory.

That paints a very visual image, even though a heart attack clearly won't happen. But we're letting her imagination work for us here.

Some context here: "Gahment" is a lazy spelling for "government". She's white, thus my comment about white people. Durian: a notorious Southeast Asian fruit famous for its pungent smell.

The Quick Rapport kept building as well; our vibing with each other was great.

You can see elements of foreshadowing in there too, as a sort of fun roleplay.

At this point, I just needed to lead. So I went for her number by using what she said to smoothly transition again:

But if we're gonna make plans, maybe we should do that over WhatsApp.

And just like that, we're getting on WhatsApp! Pretty effortless, if you ask me.

II

PART TWO

Let's make a date, stranger

Fact: You could still lose her from now till the date. Her dog may end up being sick, her aunt may die, the many excuses may come.

But here at the Authentic Gentleman, we play to win. Not to hope for a chance.

Online dating may be a numbers game, but there's still a HUGE difference in dating 1 out of 10 matches versus dating 6 out of 10 matches.

We want to be like snipers — for every conversation we have, we get a date.

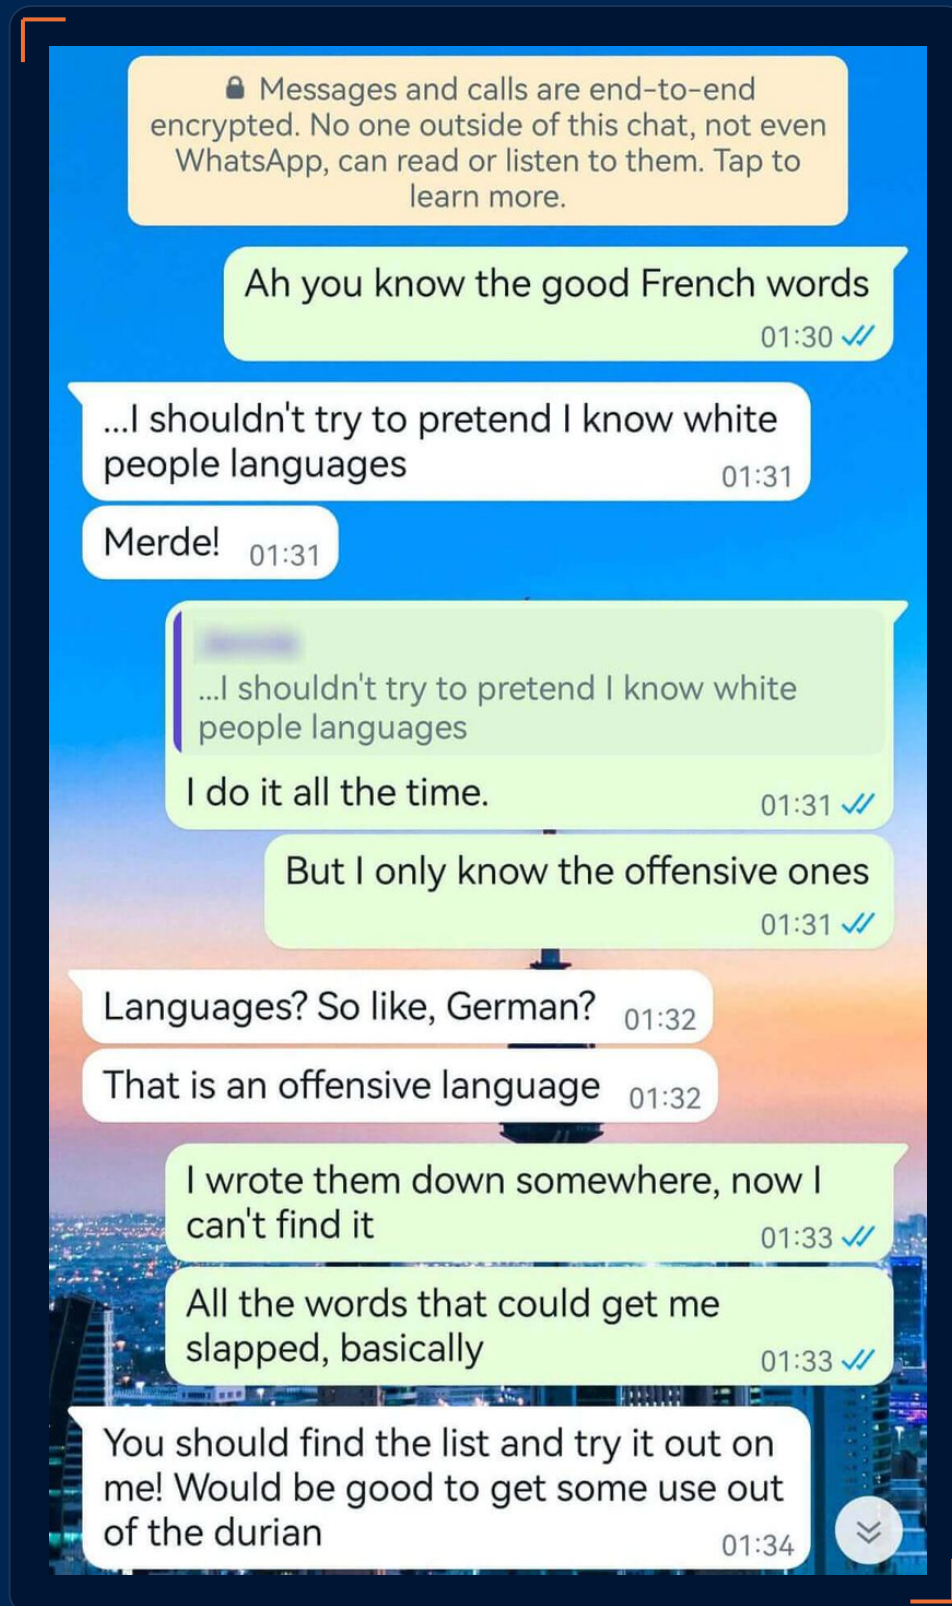

How do we do that?

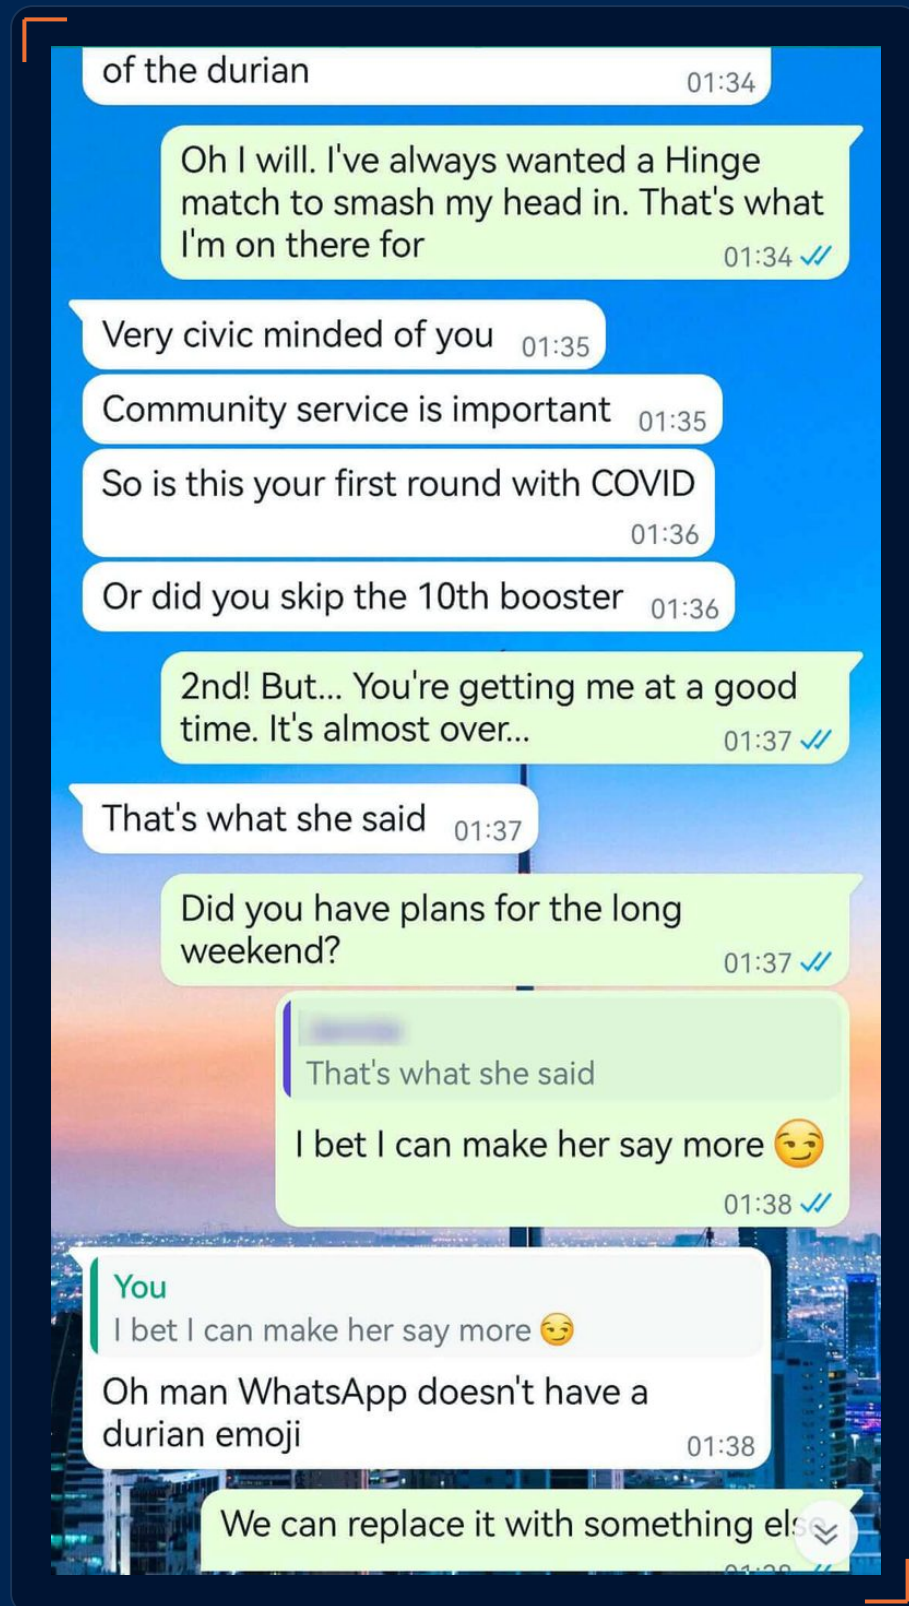

By NOT doing more.

We do less, by repeating what we do well. Which is why...

The Affinity Method's conversation system only has 3 steps.

You've learnt the first 2 steps: Quick Rapport and Foreshadow.

The third step is not necessary before the first date, but it adds an element of sexual tension if you use it.

AFFINITY METHOD — STEP 3

Sexualization.

We do this to let our match know our date is NOT going to be platonic.

But women can object to sexting, especially if she feels like you're behaving like the typical creeps on the Internet.

So we overcome that problem by implying instead.

Which is why I said:

“

“But I only know the offensive ones.”

“

“All the words that could get me slapped basically.”

As well as...

“

“I bet I can make her say more.”

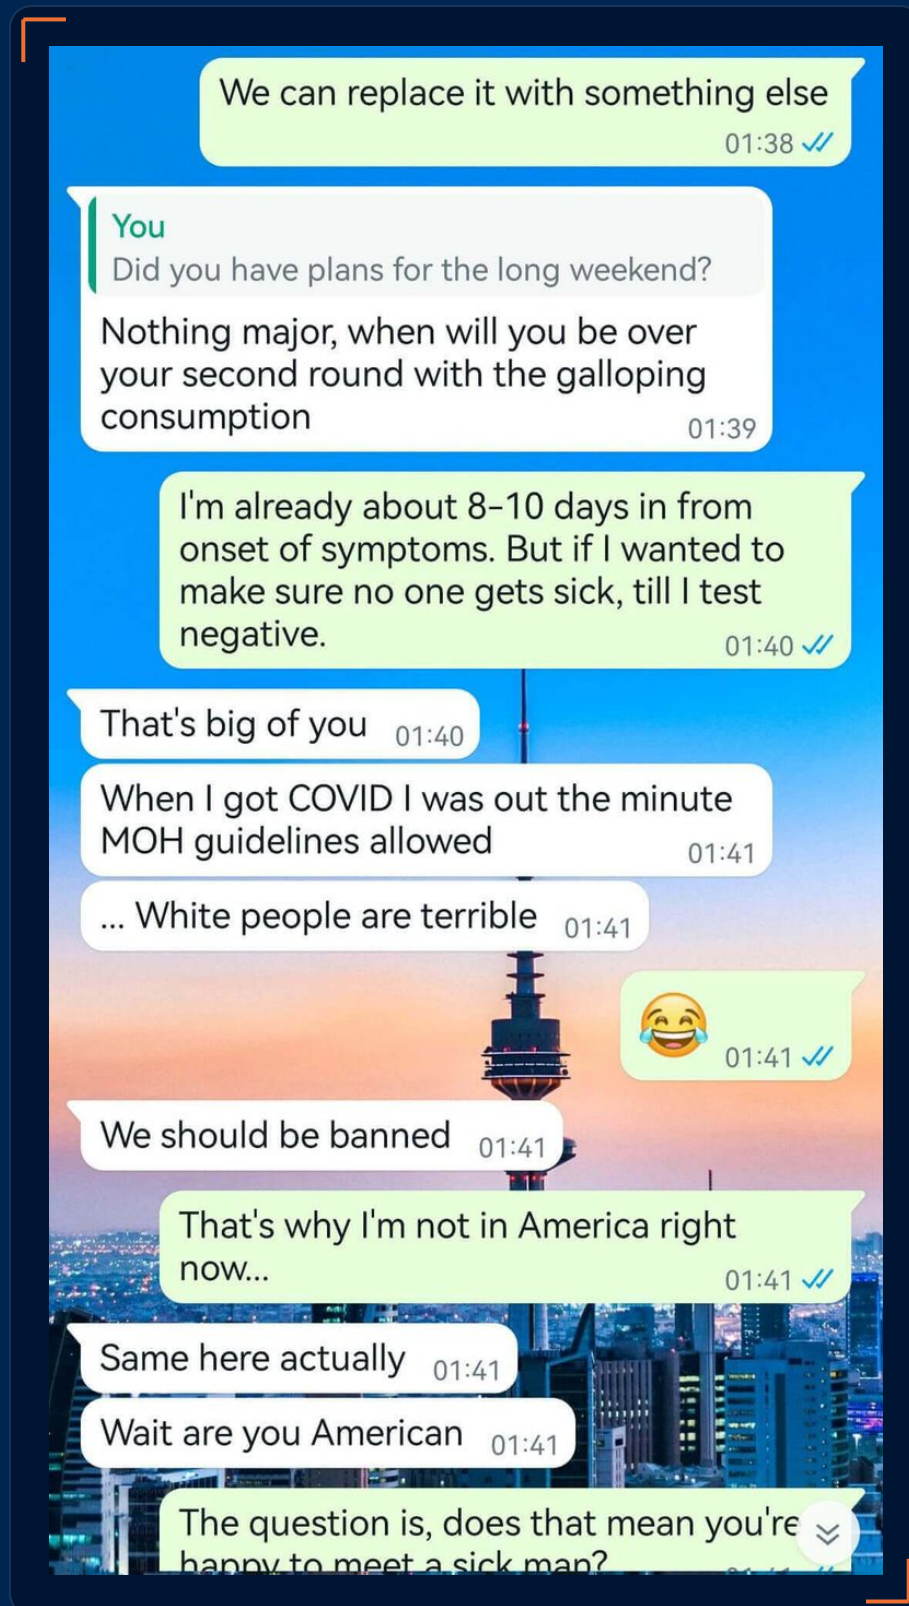

”

“We can replace it with something else.”

How do I know this works?

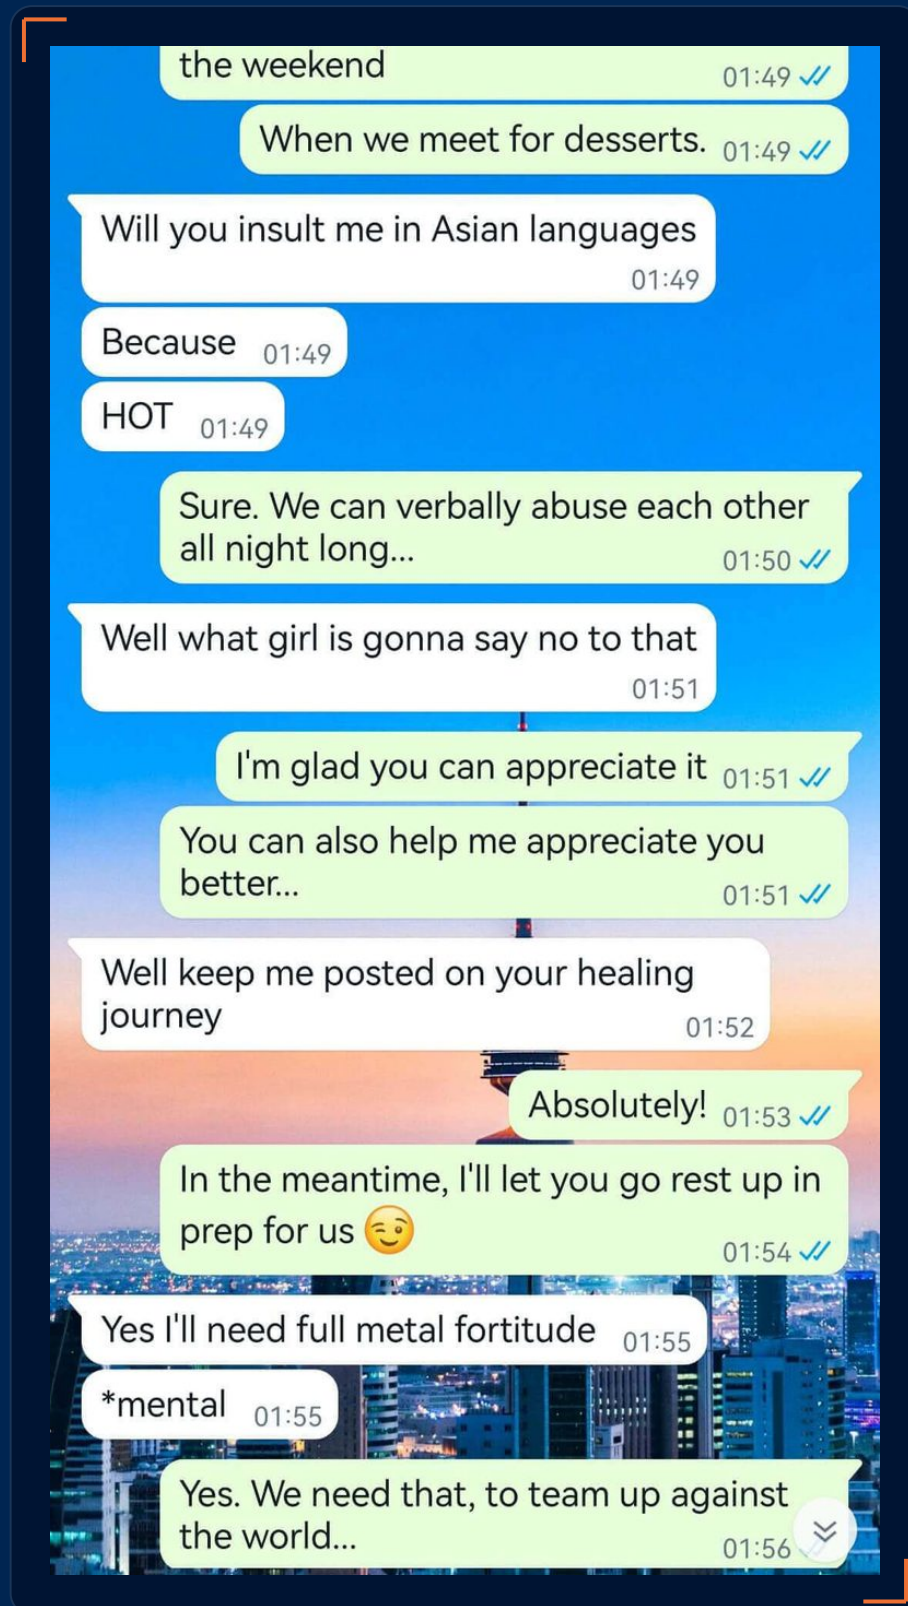

Because months later... she told me she knew I was looking for something casual, based on the way I messaged her.

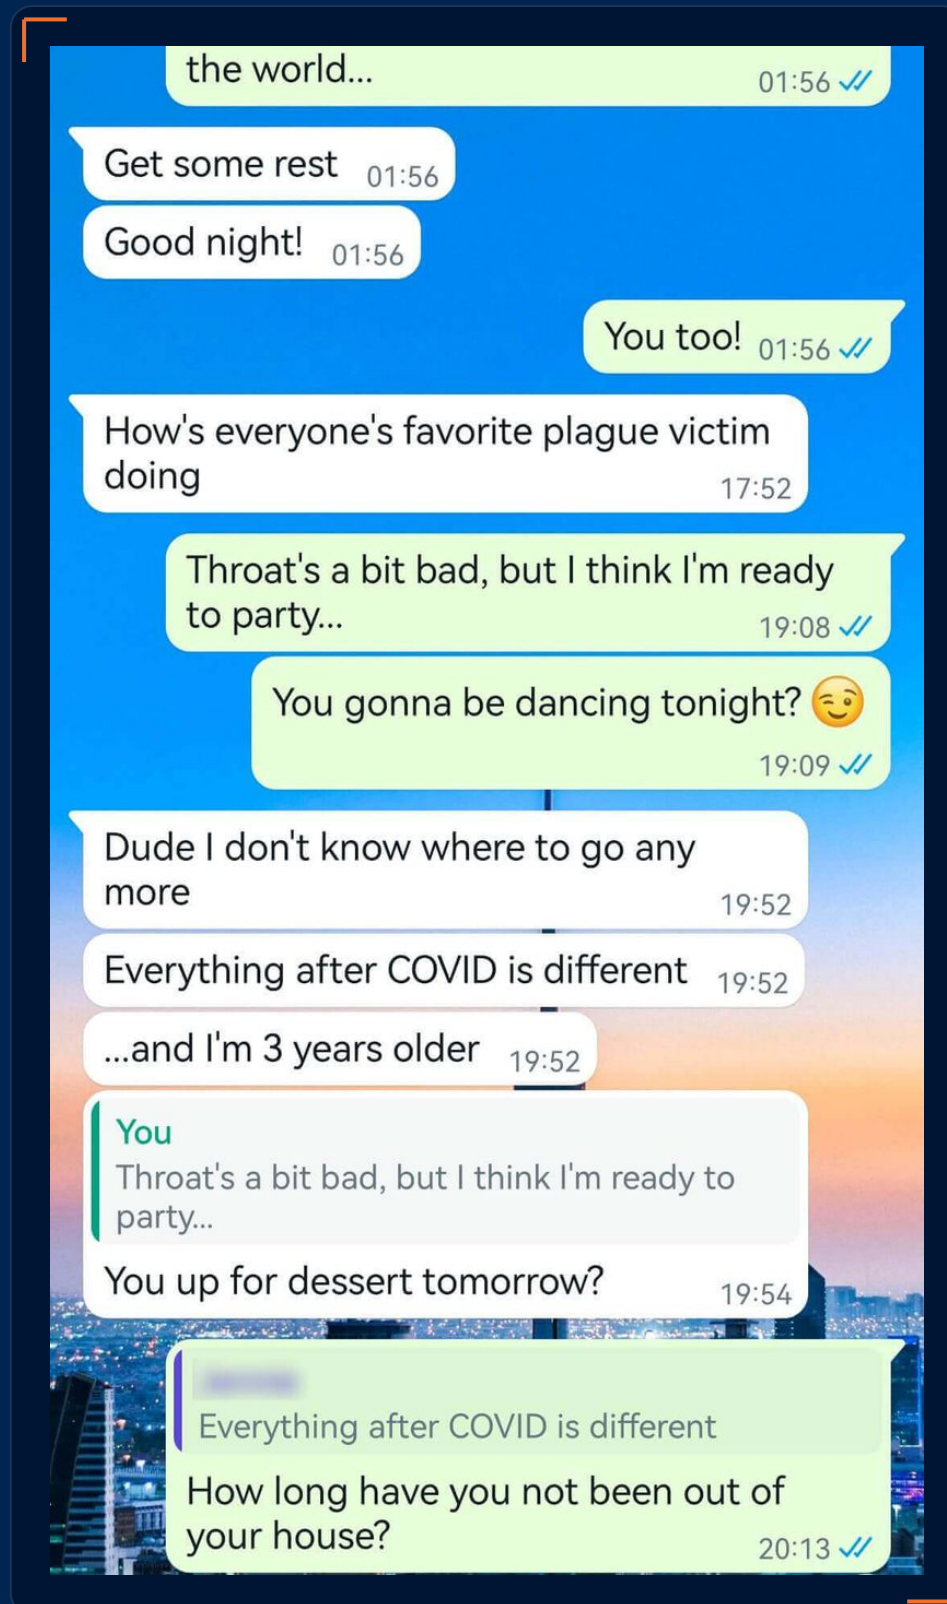

I do the same in almost all my other free reports as well, as I lead my dating app matches from the first message to the bedroom.

And of course, eventually... she asked me out:

“

You up for dessert tomorrow?

LAUREN

Now, I don't expect women to ever ask me out. But this happens frequently enough. Because when women meet someone they are attracted to, they WILL chase.

You can achieve the same results too. This is NOT something only the top 3% of male Tinder users can experience.

I say this with confidence because once again, I am not the epitome of male attractiveness. No modeling company in their right mind will tell me, "Jiron, we want you to model for us."

I am just a regular skinny Asian dude (my girlfriend insists I am not skinny), who knows what the fuck he's doing when he's on dating apps.

What I've shown you so far... you will see different variations of the same type of conversation over and over again. In easily 75% of my 230 documented matches from June 2021 till June 2023.

So what worked in the above conversation?

RULES OF AFFINITY METHOD

Don't be boring.

Women are busy and bored.

Most men lose the woman's attention, either from the beginning or somewhere in the middle. Sometimes before the first date, sometimes after a few dates.

That's one big reason why men constantly get ghosted.

The very first thing you wanna stop doing with your matches... is ask her:

“

“What are you doing?”

“

“How is your day?”

Those questions kill your conversations fast, because for plenty of people, their day is simply not exciting at all.

It's routine.

It's boring.

It's a wait till the next exciting thing.

In the above conversation screenshots, I never once asked that question.

Instead, what I did was: build togetherness, make statements and mischievous suggestions.

Even with my questions, I was using them to guide the conversation towards the date.

But mostly, I was showing her my personality, so she can recognise that I am someone she wants to meet.

And it's not difficult to do so. I can teach you how, and you DON'T need years before you see success.

A lot of my students get dates before they even finish learning about Sexualization.

I've used the Affinity Method to get FwBs as well as my long-term girlfriend. Same goes for my students. You can see all these testimonials on The Authentic Gentleman.

But let's finally move on to the date.

III

PART THREE

It is ON!

Date night rolls around.

I know it's very likely to be a good date because of our texting. There's no mistaking the vibe.

Things may change in person, sure. But if her online persona and real person are the same, and I like her, chances are... something was gonna happen.

I say this with confidence because while most guys go into a date and simply wing it, I have a game-plan.

That means I am never unsure of what my next step is.

The conversation system is simple:

- 1 Always build togetherness and quick rapport,
- 2 Foreshadow for the immediate future (Date 2),
- 3 Sexualize the interaction with both my body language and words.

Same thing as you saw on text.

(Again, sexualization is not necessary. You can also romanticize the interaction instead.)

But there are 2 more important things I need to make sure happens on the date, as you will find out soon enough...

So we met at 8pm. She came in a nice flowery dress and I knew instantly she had no lack of suitors.

First stop was ice cream.

In my mind, I knew where we were going after ice cream, but I was adaptable. I had a list of places as part of my Plan B.

Conversation was basic. Nothing stellar. But things got interesting pretty fast.

She started roasting me.

At first, she said I dressed like a man from Fuzhou, a 3rd tier city in China. Then she commented on my shoes, saying they didn't look like anyone should wear them.

If you felt that was offensive, it can be.

But my experience over the years helped me recognise her words weren't meant to hurt. It was just her style of banter.

I laughed it off and said, "You mean the best dressed from Fuzhou." and broke out a big wide smile. I did the same for every other bit of roasting I got from her that night.

3 months later, she said she's glad I wasn't offended, because that meant we could get along.

9 months later, she insists the roasting was her way of flirting.

After the ice cream, my plan was to bring her to a nice quiet spot where we could talk freely. That is where if the vibe was going well, I would escalate by sexualizing the conversation.

Like I said, I have a game-plan. And I was leading her through it.

So that's the first important thing that needs to happen...

DATE GAME-PLAN

Always be leading the interaction.

We ended up at an Irish pub.

It was the perfect spot because there was a nice corner away from the main crowd. The vibe between us got WAY better there.

And here's the second important thing that needs to happen...

DATE GAME-PLAN

Bring your best vibe.

When you bring a great vibe to your dates, everything becomes possible.

She feels your energy first. So your words must align with your energy.

We started talking about our experiences on Hinge, and the different types of dates we've been on.

I used that to showcase my personality, sharing my beliefs and values (Quick Rapport) on dating, relationships and various topics.

We were also seated next to each other, which allowed us to get close physically. You want her to feel your presence.

I didn't sexualize much, because I didn't need to. I made a passing comment about us making out. That was as blatant as I got.

The rule is... if she likes you, she will accept your verbal sexualization. If she doesn't like you, it doesn't matter what you do.

Therefore, sexualizing 2–3 times is enough. Use your eye contact and casual touches (appropriate places, mind you), otherwise.

She didn't respond to it verbally, but her body language was receptive. That's all I needed. By then, it was 11:30pm. Vibe was still good and strong.

It was game on.

I led the interaction again, suggesting we move ourselves to a quieter spot. She agreed and we left.

By that hour, the city was almost empty. The streets only had cars driving by, but it was awashed in lights from the stores along the outside of the super mall.

We sat on a bench outside the super mall, and I foreshadowed our second date by painting a picture of us dancing in the biggest club in Singapore. We both love to dance, and it was a great way to sexually escalate.

I verbally sexualized again. That was when she said:

“

How about you bring me to that Marquee club next week, the one you talked about?
And then after the fun and dancing, we can head back to my place.

LAUREN

In all my years of meeting and dating women, I've never had to negotiate like that before. Lol.

But she was down.

And as I thought we were just gonna make out there and then, she called a cab back to her place.

As it turns out, she misunderstood me. She thought I meant we should go back to her place and make out.

I didn't try to correct her. I also knew if we ended up back at her place, we were almost certain to have sex. I've been through this scenario enough times to know what's coming next.

4.5 hours after we met, we ended up in her room.

3 days later, this happened:

IV

PART FOUR

So what happened?

The Affinity Method is a combination of 3 things:

1 Natural Conversation System

2 Awareness Development

3 Positive Dating Mindsets

Let me break it down better for you.

You saw in Parts 1 to 3 how the conversation system worked.

We begin by building a quick connection — getting her to agree with us as much as possible, and creating a nice synergy with a good vibe from both of us.

Good vibes are infectious, just like laughter. So if she feels your good vibe, she will reciprocate with her own. This is also the Law of Reciprocity, as popularized by Robert Cialdini in “Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion”.

The good vibes made it easy to quickly suggest date ideas by painting a picture in her mind.

We may also choose to sexualize the conversation, giving it that element of sexual tension, and creating anticipation for the date.

The conversation system becomes even more efficient with Awareness Development. We show you how to build Awareness of Self, Man-Woman Dynamics, Social Environment, and Lifestyle.

For example, women love a man who leads the interaction, and it's very easy to make a simple game-plan.

Women also enjoy sex as much as men do, if not more. So don't be afraid to sexualize the interaction. You've gotta shoot your shot at the end of the day. No regrets!

And lastly, always have a Positive Dating Mindset. She wants to have fun, and so do you. I don't take myself seriously, and I don't let self-doubt get in the way by thinking, "Oh what if she doesn't like me". My game-plan also helped my confidence, because I knew precisely what I needed to do.

I also believed she would like me for who I am, because... what's there not to like?

I believe I am a good person. I have a good sense of humour, I am not boring, I continuously improve myself as a person, and I can be pretty darn charming at times.

If you don't think you are a likeable person, then my advice is to start finding reasons for why you are.

If you already think you are, then reinforce those reasons in your mind. Have a strong unshakeable belief that you are worthy of love. The confidence that arises from that belief is very attractive, and women can sense that very quickly.

Here's the thing though.

The Affinity Method goes WAY deeper.

What you read above are just the basics.

Each principle (Natural Conversation System, Awareness of Relationship Dynamics, Positive Dating Mindsets) has plenty more to expand upon.

For example, with the Natural Conversation System, I teach my students how to listen and respond better with a very simple technique. This is a natural real-world technique that many of us are already doing without realising. You've definitely used it at some point in your life, you're just not aware of it.

In fact, it's so effective a woman will feel like you're her soulmate if you use it on her. So, be very careful how you wield that power.

We can't feature all that in this PDF though, because we don't give it away freely and we are selective with the students we enrol in our coaching program.

But you can find out more now, just by hitting us up for a FREE Clarity Consult.

FREE CLARITY CONSULT

We will spend an hour:

- Discovering your biggest challenges with women, as well as your strengths,
- Understanding your dating goals and the type of success you wish to achieve with women,
- Creating a game-plan on how to achieve your dating goals,
- Learning how you can overcome your obstacles... so you never have to worry ever again about being single forever, and
- Showing you what you can learn in the Affinity Method.

Simply enter your available date for the Clarity Consult, and we will arrange a call with you.

Until then...

May you live a memorable dating life,

Jiron.

AG

AUTHENTICGENTLEMAN.COM